GOV. DOLE COMES HOME

Simon Sam's eight million grab from Hawaii shows there was nothing simple about Simon, though he was clearly criminal.

President Palma starts off with a criticism by his Congress, just to show they love him. His people later may take the mugwump's tribute to Cleveland for their cry and "love him for the enemies he has made."

President Roosevelt's defense of the army was to be expected, but it will avail naught, for it takes more than pretty words to convince the people that the water cure is benevolent assimilation in any form whatever.

The death of John Adair Haassinger removes a figure familiar to Kamaaina and a man beloved by all whose privilege it was to enter the circle of his influence. Of disposition kindly, with heart warm and wit flashing but not caustic, he was a friend sought and appreciated.

The beef trust cannot expect much aid from the people in their effort to win the strike from the teamsters. High prices have caused so many people to give up beef that a famine is robbed of its usual terrors. Perhaps the feeling that beef is not a necessary of life, brought into being by the exorbitant prices and intensified by enforced abstinence, may yet take from the trust some of its profits.

It seems impossible that the news brought by the Helene, that the crater of Kilauea had filled up and begun to overflow into the Kau district, is true. The great crater might become a lake of fire, such a lake as never existed before, with its miles of circumference and hundreds of feet of depth, but it is safe to believe that before the full height had been reached the lava would have broken through the walls of the crater as was the case in 1840, and now be well on the way to the sea. Today's ships will set at rest all speculation.

Gov. Dole returned to his capital, after a sojourn abroad during which time he accomplished much in the making known of conditions here, and is honored by people and press wherever he goes. The depth of the feeling of the people for the chief executive was evidenced by the spontaneity of the greeting which came from representatives of every trade and profession and every race represented in our cosmopolitan population. There were absentees whose presence would have indicated an acceptance of the view of the President that Gov. Dole is worthy of confidence and support. Their absence did not prevent the ovation from being sincere. Their presence could not have made it more so.

HANNA CONTROLS REPUBLICANS

CLEVELAND, O., May 21.—The Republican convention named the following ticket: Secretary of State, Lewis C. Laylin of Norwalk; Judge of Supreme Court, William B. Crew of McConellsville; Food and Dairy Commissioner, Horace Akenney of Xenia; member of the Board of Public Works, William Kirtley, Jr., of Defiance.

The convention, which has been a continued ovation to Senator Hanna, closed this evening with a great demonstration in his honor, to which he responded in a characteristic speech. The Senator at former state conventions has sounded keynotes that have been taken up by Republican glee clubs. He told them today to sing "Keep on Letting Well Enough Alone" in the campaign rallies this year.

The convention was distinguished for harmony in all that was done. One of the last reconciliations was that of Senator Hanna and former Governor Asa S. Bushnell of Springfield. Senator Hanna and George B. Cox of Cincinnati also had a friendly farewell to-night after a contest during the day over nominations.

What were called the Hanna men won on all ballots, but Cox supported none of the winners. In making up the state ticket Hanna and Cox were on opposite sides today, the same as in the contest for the organization of the Legislature last January, but good feeling prevailed after the convention was over.

The platform endorses the administration and deprecates the loss of McKinley.

BREAKS HIS LEG AT A RECEPTION

BOSTON, Mass., May 21.—A mishap befell a member of the Rochambeau Mission here today, when Major Berthelot, the aide-de-camp to Gen. Brugere, sustained a fracture of the left leg. The accident happened at the navy yard at Charlestown, where Major Berthelot, with Vice Admiral Fourrier and staff, went to inspect the buildings, equipment and ships. While passing from the hall of the commandant's house into the reception room, the polished hardwood floor and fell. He was unable to rise, and had to be assisted to a couch. Doctors hastily summoned, found that one of the bones of the left leg had been fractured. As soon as possible the injured officer was taken to the French battleship Gaulois, where the ship's surgeon attended him. The accident caused some confusion and brought the visit to the navy yard to an abrupt end. Admiral Fourrier and staff had previously been received with full honors by Admiral Johnson.

LONDON, May 21.—The Taft mission to Rome is reported to have every prospect of success. The Vatican is willing to allow the monasteries and convents in Philippines to be under civil law.

by the influx of Japanese and the agreement among the sugar planters not to hire laborers who have forsaken their jobs without cause. I think the situation in the islands, both political and commercial, is extremely hopeful. President Roosevelt expressed great interest in our welfare. He impressed me as a very intense man, quick to act and filled with zeal for his country's good.

"The statements that I will resign are untrue. Unless my health fails I will remain in office, and I am in excellent health now. I received some social honors in Washington and dined with a number of the distinguished statesmen of the Nation."

Governor Dole will be the guest of honor at a dinner given Thursday by Alexander Young at Oakland. Young is a multi-millionaire planter of Hawaii. Gavin McNab had planned a banquet to Dole, but owing to McNab's poor health the invitations were countermanded. The call said: Governor Sanford B. Dole of the Territory of Hawaii arrived at the Occidental Hotel yesterday and will leave for the islands on the steamer Alameda on Saturday. He has been in Washington on the request of President Roosevelt and on his way back he spent several days in Southern California. He is in splendid health and with the exception of a slight cold, which he contracted in the East, he has not had one day's illness during his visit to the United States.

"I went to Washington at the request of the President," Governor Dole said. "In my conferences with the President he desired to know as much as possible about the political situation. He did not inquire about the administration of the islands."

"There have been many reports that the President would call upon you to resign and that Sam Parker would possibly succeed you," said the interviewer. "Is there any likelihood of this taking place?"

Governor Dole replied: "Sam Parker is a well educated Hawaiian. All Hawaiians, however, have a way of putting too much weight on remarks that are made. This is how the report was circulated about Sam Parker. I surmise. He heard some report that he might be made Governor and put too much stress on the remark. It is a misunderstanding on his part. I know nothing about his being made Governor. I will never resign except on account of ill-health. A year ago I was not feeling very good. I took a vacation in the mountains for a month and returned perfectly restored in health."

There will be no changes on my part as a result of my visit to Washington. The President did not allude to the "crown" lands and the matter was not discussed. Queen Liliuokalani receives a pension of $7,500 a year from the Hawaiian Government and I do not think that the United States Government will grant her another pension. The "crown" lands are now fused with the other Hawaiian Government lands. You must understand that a clause in the annexation treaty had a clause which allowed the land laws of Hawaii to remain the same and not be made the same as in America."

Governor Dole when asked about the political situation in Hawaii said: "There are three political parties down here. The Home Rule, which is composed of old Royalists, polls the largest vote, as every native votes the Home Rule ticket. The second and third parties are the Republican and Democrat. Wilcox is the head of the Home Rule party. He is a good politician, but in other things he is not effective. He has no particular standing or influence back in Washington. Sam Parker is the Republican leader, being the representative of the National Committee."

The Home Rule party has political control of the natives. It has a two-thirds vote in the lower House, but in the Senate it lacks one of two-thirds. Of course, this power is very embarrassing to my administration, as the Home Rule Representatives have vetoed many necessary appropriations. I do not think the Home Rule party will remain strong or lasting, as it has never fulfilled one promise made before election."

The labor situation in the Hawaiian Islands is very satisfactory. At the time of annexation all labor contracts became void, and on this account many of the laborers left the plantations they were working on and roamed around the islands hoping to better their conditions. This has all been remedied and there is now no lack of laborers."

Many of the sugar planters are anxious for white laborers to come to the islands, and promise them a profit-sharing contract if they will remain a certain space of time. The proposition to spend money, is that these planters will give white laborers a house, garden and so many acres of land to cultivate and they are to mutually share in the profits."

In reference to the claims of those who lost their property by the burning of certain parts of Honolulu at the time of the plague, the matter is in the hands of a court of claims. The total of claims will amount to about $2,000,000. It is the wish of our people that Congress should lend us the money to pay these claims. The United States was greatly interested in seeing that the plague was stamped out, and we think that they should help us in the matter. All the people who had their property burned need the money badly and the sooner the claims are settled the better for all concerned. We cannot pay the claims, as all the money we collect from taxation we need for certain appropriations."

The Examiner said: Governor Dole of Hawaii has no idea of resigning, and he is persuaded that the impression which seems to possess Sam Parker and his friends on the subject of office is due to an imperfect sense of the meaning, value and uses of words in politics. Mr. Dole has been visiting Washington and is much pleased with President Roosevelt.

"I had an extended conference with President Roosevelt," said Governor Dole last night. "We got personally acquainted, and I gave him a very complete summary of the political situation in Hawaii. A year ago I was in bad health and might have resigned had I not been under fire. Today I'm in very good health and do not see why I should give up the position of Governor of Hawaii. I'm now on my way home, and feel good over the fact that President Roosevelt shows every indication that he has confidence in me."

Governor Dole will leave San Francisco for home on the steamer Alameda next Saturday.

"Of course," continued the Governor. "Samuel Parker was never promised my place, and I do not know that he ever said so himself directly. He is a fine native and has a good education. I know him, and he is no fool. But sometimes a Hawaiian native will unintentionally place more meaning on certain words than a white man. That, in my opinion, is the explanation of all this talk about Parker for Governor. Parker is a leader in the Republican party in the islands. Judging from an election last April in the islands, the Republicans are gaining strength from the native or Home Rule party."

"What about Wilcox? The natives sent him to Congress as the delegate from Hawaii. He seems to be a good politician, but in other ways he is not an effective man. Apparently, he has no standing or influence at Washington. He has promised much to the natives, but has been unable to fulfill his promises. On this account the native party will decline in influence."

"Prince David trains with the Democratic party. It remains to be seen how at the November election. Prince David, Parker and Wilcox will split up the native vote."

Governor Dole says former Queen Liliuokalani is receiving an annual pension of $7,500 from the Hawaiian Government, and he does not know of any movement at Washington to give her further recognition. The crown lands have been placed with other public lands for disposal under Hawaiian laws. The Governor thinks Congress should pay the $1,200,000 or $1,500,000—amounts due to the burning of part of the city to stamp out the bubonic plague.

"The labor situation is fairly satisfactory," said the Governor. "Messrs. Castle, Harrison and other large planters want good white labor and will place it on a profit-sharing basis."

Oil in Lower California.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 31.—The Lower California Development Company has decided to sink wells on the peninsula for the purpose of developing oil. There have been found evidences of the existence of oil on their lands and the steamer St. Denis today takes down a portion of the heavy drilling machinery. Manager J. C. Packard says it is the intention of the company to sink several wells to the depth of 2000 feet. The first will be put down at Cape Colnett. There has been no previous attempt to find oil in Lower California, but it has been found in small quantities at a depth of 400 feet, while boring for water at Cape Colnett.

Get the Most Out of Your Food

You don't and can't if your stomach is weak. A weak stomach does not digest all that is ordinarily taken into it. It gets tired easily, and what it fails to digest is wasted.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, and disagreeable belching.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla at different times for stomach troubles, and a run down condition of the system, and have been greatly benefited by its use. I would not be without it in my family. I am troubled with weak stomach and nausea and find Hood's Sarsaparilla invaluable." E. B. HICKMAN, W. Chester, Pa.
